Our User Acceptance Test lead will review your business requirements, use cases, and application to identify testing scope utilizing our TCoE process and methodology. Our experts will work with your team and end users to develop test scenarios with steps to be performed using your software. We then develop a profile of the target audience and, based on that profile, we assign QA experts who will thoroughly test your software, looking for bugs and collecting data.

Our consultants work with your project team on timeliness and QA metrics. They provide daily test status reports that review tests coverage and defects.
